

Palatine Boy Shot at Road House

Gravely Wounded; Melrose Park Youths Held, Had Gun

John Glade Jr., who, with his parents, recently moved to a farm near Gilberts, was shot in the abdomen about 11 o'clock Sunday night at the Moonlight gardens on Route 5, about 5 miles west of Elgin. He is now in St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin, where an operation was performed at once in the hope of saving his life. It was found that the intestines were punctured in 13 places, the bullet having glanced down into the leg where it severed a large blood vessel. Little hope has been held for his recovery. The trouble started when two Melrose Park youths, Walter Witort, 19, and Albert Ariola, 20, carrying a gun, drove into the parking space at the road house and nearly ran into a party of young men of which Glade was one. The argument turned into a fight and the shooting then occurred. Glade sank to the running board of a parked car. Ariola fled to a nearby field but later gave himself up. Witort was captured also. When questioned, each denied the shooting, but admitted having a gun with them. The Melrose Park youth have engaged council to defend them. Assault with a deadly weapon and intent to kill, was the charge that was to be entered against them, to be changed to a charge of murder in case Glade's wound should prove fatal. The Melrose Park youths had visited another dance hall, South of Elgin, earlier in the evening, having picked up 2 girls, the last names of which they said they did not remember.
